

A&M's Global Trade Services team helps domestic and multinational corporations navigate complex Mexican trade and customs operations, such as Maquila operations, IMMEX, PROSEC, AEO, bonded warehouse structures, and free trade agreements. Our team provides tax advisory services related to global trade transactions, customs, import, and export regulations, and we help clients determine and implement tax impacts for supply chain structures.

OUR SERVICE OFFERINGS

TAX ADVISORY

By assessing the client's transactions, goods and services, supply chain, and locations, we can help optimize the taxes and tariffs that will need to be paid. We also advise companies regarding foreign trade, customs, and regulatory matters, including foreign trade taxes, tariff classification, customs value, temporary imports, free trade agreements, countervailing and antidumping duties, and customs special regimes such as Maquila operations, IMMEX, PROSEC, AEO, bonded warehouse structures, and economic free trade zones.

DUE DILIGENCE AND COMPLIANCE

Our team performs compliance reviews and internal audits on foreign trade operations. When filings must be made, our team can help businesses comply with any customs and duties obligations.

AUDIT AND LITIGATION

We assist clients being audited by the Customs and Tax Authorities by supporting information requirements, transit inspections, and visits. We also represent our clients in administrative and jurisdictional procedures, including customs procedures, administrative appeals, and administrative and constitutional trials regarding tax, customs, and foreign trade regulations.

TRADE REMEDIES

A&M advises and represents clients in anti-dumping and countervailing procedures before the International Trade Practices Unit of the Ministry of Economy.

MANAGED SERVICES

Our team helps clients process and manage import and export permits from sanitary, environmental, and energy authorities and certificates of origin from trade authorities.
