Estate Planning Strategies

Valuations of most public and private companies are down. Individuals and families should consider transferring depressed assets to younger generations, particularly in light of an uncertain estate tax regime in the future.

Below are key issues and opportunities / considerations to keep in mind:

KEY ISSUE

High net worth families with succession planning or general wealth transfer objectives should consider transfers of publicly or closely held business interests

Opportunities / Considerations

Family Limited Partnership

- Family members contribute assets to a FLP / LLC and take back units or membership interests of the entity
- The pooled assets are invested
- Individuals may gift shares of the FLP / LLC to heirs at a discounted value due to the illiquidity of the shares
- Advanced planning ideas include selling interests / units of the FLP / LLC at a discounted value to a Delaware Dynasty Trust to shelter assets from future estate and gift tax
- Multiple classes of equity can be issued to facilitate planning objectives (ex. Estate Freeze)

Sale to Intentionally Defective Grantor Trust

- Grantor creates a Family Limited Partnership or other form of pooled investment vehicle (LLC)
- Grantor contributes assets to a pooled investment vehicle in return for an ownership interest in the entity
- Grantor sells at a discounted value of interest in the pooled investment vehicle
- A promissory note is established between the trust and the Grantor to provide an income stream
- Grantor pays income tax generated by the trust, which provides tax free gifts to the trust

KEY ISSUE

Maximize the lifetime exclusion, which is currently $11.58 million per person. Current federal estate tax rate is also low at 40%

Opportunities / Considerations

Grantor Retained Annuity Trusts (GRAT)

- Appreciating assets are transferred to a GRAT for a term of years
- Grantor may or may not pay gift taxes on small portion of assets transferred to GRAT
- Grantor receives annuity stream in cash or kind for term of years
- Grantor pays income taxes on trust income and gains during trust term
- When trust term ends, remaining assets pass to in trust for heirs gifts
